

For Immediate Release
February 28, 2023

The Gallery by MUI Showcases Female Artists Online Exhibit

In Bloom: Celebrating Women in Art

Washington, DC— February 28, 2023 — From March 1 through March 31, 2023, The Gallery by MUI will be hosting their annual Women’s History Month online exhibit. This year’s exhibit titled, In Bloom, features the work of over 25 artists, presenting 30 works, and representing 16 countries.

“In Bloom explores women in their entirety, in their own words. This online exhibition is centered on the themes of simplicity, wisdom, rebirth and transformation, and showcases the work of female creators and artists only.” This exhibit, curated by Gallery Creative Director Maria Ilochi, shows artworks, photographs, and sculpture, that both celebrate and represent women in art. Asked about the online art exhibition, Ilochi said that the goal was to highlight and spotlight women that create. “Women are often spoken over and disregarded. I wanted to curate a collection of work that honors women in their own words. I decided to host this exhibit during Women’s History Month to honor those that came before us, and those that will surely effect change in the future.”

The exhibition encompasses many visual arts: painting, drawing, photography, textile, sculpture, and performance. “We did not want to limit this open call in any way – from medium to location,” Ilochi adds.

About The Gallery by MUI: The Gallery by MUI is a visual design studio and creative platform focused on amplifying creators through collaborative art efforts. Through our collaborative efforts including, but not limited to, online exhibitions, interviews and written publications, we strive to create an environment where creators can showcase and explain their craft, in their own words.

For more information, visit gallerymui.com

Email: hello@gallerymui.com

###